An Abundance

by Robert L. Martin

If we lived for
A thousand years,
Learning every day
Something new,
We would soon realize
How much we don't know.
We still would only know
A fraction of what
There is to know.

Since knowledge is multifarious,
We are only capable of
Learning one aspect at a time.
After we have learned it,
It is time to graduate
And move on to the next phase.

An abundance of knowledge
Is out there for us to take
For our keeping.
Happy Graduation Day, Graduates.
Keep up the good work.

The Real Estate Guys
Listing Your Home for Sale

The DeCesares

In this day & age if you are trying to sell a property on your own you simply don't understand the necessary processes and potential complications.

Even with the guidance and services of a Realtor there will be bumpy parts of the ride in most occasions. It's important that you have an expert handle the sale of one of your largest assets. There is much to discuss on this topic. Today I would like to speak about the Listing Agreement between Sellers and the Realtor. This Agreement is a legally binding Agreement between you and the Real Estate Company that you are working with. It is packed full of terminology that most Sellers are not familiar with. Some important ones are;

Setting the Price; Your Real Estate Agent, Broker, or Appraiser will research the market and provide you with documentation as to the expected amount of money that your property should bring. Consider this information seriously. Many times properties are listed at a price that has no basis or relative to how much is owed on them. Do your homework before selecting a list price. Most properties sell quickly when priced correctly, or, languish on the market when they are overpriced.

Term; The length of the Agreement is negotiable.

Commission; This is important. Traditionally the Commission Rate is 6% of the sale price. From this the listing Broker keeps 3% and pays 3% to a Selling Broker. This amount has been the amount expected by a selling agent for at least the past 30 years that I am aware of. At this time listings are low. There are more Buyers than Sellers. Some Realtors will become greedy. They will list your property at 6% and instead of offering seller agents 3% or 1/2 of the commission, they only offer the Selling agent 2.5%. If you notice it...on the Listing Agreement...you should question it. There will be interesting reasons but none in your best interest..because, to re-iterate, the selling agents will consider this when selecting properties to show.. Other agents may offer a reduced rate of commission to acquire your listing. Of course they will, again, be offering less than the traditional amount to a selling agent. This again serves no benefit to the Seller...just benefits the listing agent.(he gets your listing). Consider the fact, again, that your Agent is charged with having your best interest in mind AT ALL TIMES. It is of the utmost importance that you have faith in your Agents abilities, trustworthiness, and motive.

 Read the fine print! You will hear all types of promises from Companies "to get their foot in your door" Some offer to sell your home is a specified number of days or they will buy it...Sounds awesome. You should anticipate many conditions. After all, every company needs to make a profit or they won't be in business.

This is my 30th year in business. I've heard all of the stories. I ask you this; If you were having brain surgery would you want the best Doctor available... who is experienced and successful? Or, would you want a surgeon who works part time, or, needs to cut his fees to obtain patients. Your property is one of your largest assets. The Realtor that you select is charged with selling it for you for the highest amount that it will bring, in the shortest amount of time, with the smoothest transaction as possible. Do your homework when selecting your Agent!
