Broom Riding License

by Robert L. Martin

If we non-witches here on earth need a driver's license, why shouldn't moon circulating witches have one too? If the nasty witches want to be rebel witches and ride in a counter clockwise direction and smash into the nice law abiding clockwise directional witches, that isn't fair to have the nasty witches smashing into the nice ones.

They should ride their brooms in an orderly fashion and obey the laws of broom riding; especially around Halloween when it gets rather crowded up there.

Does that sound like a good idea?

Spooky Days on the Farm will be held Friday October 29 and Saturday, October 30th from 5:00pm to 8:00pm. Groups go out continuously throughout the evening. Last tour leaves the gift shop at 8:00pm.

Enjoy exploring parts of our historic farm as you help solve a "murder" that took place in the 1800s. This is a true who-dun-it type of activity developed by a forensic specialist. Play detective as you visit the murder scene and meet with possible suspects. Be sure to pay close attention for clues and then name the evildoer if you can! This is a perfect evening for those looking for something different to do than a haunted house. We recommend bringing a flashlight as parts of the farm can be quite dark.

Spooky Days on the Farm will take place rain or shine; Get tickets on TicketLeap.com or click on the link on our website and you can schedule a time for your visit. Some tickets will be available at the gift shop on the days of the event. Not recommended for those under 8 years of age. All money raised is used to support the mission of our non-profit historic farm museum and its educational programs.

Fall Driving Tips

Now that fall has arrived, PennDOT is reminding motorists to be on the lookout for seasonal hazards.

As leaves begin to fall, wet leaves on the roadway can be as slippery as ice. They also can obscure traffic lines and other pavement markings, making driving in unfamiliar areas particularly difficult. Motorists should slow down and use extra caution on leaf-covered roadways.

Other fall hazards for motorists can be fog and sun glare. When driving in fog, motorists should use low-beam headlights since the high beam setting creates glare and reduces visibility. Additionally, headlights will enhance the visibility of your vehicle and are required by law when wipers are in use.

Sun glare can be most problematic during sunrise and sunset, which coincide with morning and evening rush hours. The intense glare from the sun on the horizon can blind a driver, causing an unexpected traffic slowdown. Drivers can prepare for the glare by keeping a set of sunglasses handy, removing clutter from their sun visors and keeping the inside of their vehicle's windshield clean.

Also, morning frost and icy spots on the road can also cause problems as overnight temperatures drop toward freezing. Motorists should pay particular attention to bridges, overpasses and shaded areas on roadways where icy spots can form on the pavement. In addition to exercising caution while driving, motorists should clear their vehicles' windows of frost before travel.

Night Race by Kim Lambert

Feelings and Thoughts race side by side,
Trying to out-do each other.
Sleep tries its best to edge its way in,
But couldn't seem to get any farther.

Memories caught up and tried to pass,
But faded behind on the stretch.
It's still anyone's race if they pick up the pace
The leader they'll now have to catch

Anxiety is now leading the pack
Restlessness is close on its heels.
Fatigue pulls ahead from way in the back,
The lead it eventually steals.

Exhaustion and Sleep now make their move,
As they struggle to win this race.
They took over the lead and though it was close,
It was Sleep that won first place.
